and the last age should should show your heart. For, lady, you deserve this state, nor would I love at lower rate. But at my back, I always hear time's winged chariot hurrying near: And yonder all before us lie deserts of vast eternity. Thy beauty shall no more be found; nor, in thy marble vault, shall sound my echoing song: then worms shall try that long preserved virginity, and your quaint honour turn to dust, and into ashes all my lust. The graves a fine and private place, but none, I think, do there embrace. Now, therefore, while the youthful hue sits on thy skin like morning dew, and while thy willing soul transpires at every pore with instant fires, now let us sport us while we may; and now, like amorous birds of prey, rather at once our Time devour, than languish in his low-chapt power. Let us roll all our strength and all our sweetness up into one ball, and tear our pleasures with rough strife through the lorn gates of life. Thus, though we cannot make our sun stand still, yet we will make him run. ***
